

Sydney Greek Philosophy Workshop 2022
Ancient Epistemology
Centre for Classical and Near Eastern Studies of Australia

Saturday, 17 Sept

1–3:30PM

Session One: “Sextus Empiricus and others on Theophrastus' modes of knowing: the role of self-evidence,” Han Baltussen (Adel.)

Commentator: Graeme Miles (Tas.)

Commentator: Dawn LaValle Norman (Aust.Cath.)

Chair: Tyler Paytas (Aust.Cath.)

4–6:30PM, Session Two, “The Elusive Techne Philosophike: Theaetetus, Sophist and Statesman,” Emily Hulme (Syd.)

Commentator: Rick Benitez (Syd.)

Commentator: Anthony Hooper (W'gong)

Chair: David Runia (Aust.Cath.)

Sunday, 18 Sept

10–12:30PM, Session three, “Aristotle on Demonstration, Deduction, and Necessity,” David Bronstein (Notre Dame Australia)

Commentator: Tom Davies (Melb.)

Commentator: Emily Hulme (Syd.)

Chair: James Collins (Syd.)

All sessions will take place in the Centre for Classical and Near Eastern Studies of Australia within the Madsen Building on the University of Sydney campus. As there will be limited access to the building on the weekend of the workshop, please do RSVP to the workshop if you plan to attend by writing Emily (emily.hulme@sydney.edu.au).